ACADEMIC ADMINISTRATION

During my tenure as a member of the senior faculty of the University of Washington, School of Social Work, I had continuing, progressively responsible experience in a wide range of areas involving faculty governance, curriculum development, promotion and tenure review, faculty recruitment, strategic planning, grant preparation, and liaison with community and national agencies. These include:

- Over seven years' experience (1983-1990) directing a research-focused, Ph.D. program in social welfare, which includes, in addition to social work, faculty from the schools of medicine, law, public affairs, business, and nursing, as well as sociology, psychology, economics, and political science: student recruitment; admissions; curriculum development; faculty governance; student placement.
- Chair of the curriculum committee and of the direct services sequence during a major revision of the professional (M.S.W.) curriculum.
- Participant in five accreditations by the Council on Social Work Education
- Four terms on faculty personnel committee including as chair; worked closely with three deans developing policies and procedures for faculty tenure/promotion and merit salary reviews.
- Involved in all aspects of junior and senior faculty recruitment.
- Lead and support role in preparation of numerous institutional grant applications, including successful application for federally funded, regional child welfare center serving Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Alaska for which I was initial director.
- Helped develop and implement experimental B.S.W./M.S.W. program.
- Multiple terms on Faculty Executive Committee, major governance body for the School of Social Work, including four terms as Chair.
- Chair and Co-Chair of the Concentration on Children, Youth & Families for a total of 8 years.

- Through various curriculum and governance committees, worked to implement recommendations of task force on sexism and several task groups on ethnic/minority concerns, including recruitment of a senior minority scholar.
- Prepared and administered as Principal Investigator, two grants from the Edna McConnell Clark Foundation on research on informal support systems for high risk families ($173,000) and national study group on improving practice technology with high risk families ($143,000) culminating in a national social work dissemination conference at Case Western Reserve University.
- Co-author of curriculum grant ($1 mill.) to Edna McConnell Clark Foundation which made possible a unique multi-year university/agency collaboration in family preservation at the University of Washington.
