Housing in Seattle tends to be more expensive and a bit more challenging to find than other parts of the Puget Sound. The average price of a studio is approximately $1,164, 1-bedroom is $1,857 and 2-bedroom is $2,177. Those considering Seattle should start their search for housing at least a month before starting classes. Should you decide to split a house or apartment with roommates, you will save substantial amount of money. Students currently pay anywhere from $600-1,000 a month in their shared living situations. Rather than securing housing sight unseen, we encourage you to allow time to research and, if possible, visit the area.

Seattle's public transportation system is undergoing improvements and expansion (such as the Link Rail), making living outside of the area a viable and less expensive option. Note that many apartment managers ask for first and last month's rent as well as damage or cleaning deposits. Don't be surprised if you have to pay for a credit check as it is standard practice in the Northwest.

Moving to a new area for school can be exhilarating and daunting. Here are some resources for out-of-state students moving to the Seattle area.
Seattle is a lively and cosmopolitan city beautifully set in a dramatic backdrop of water, forests and mountains. In addition to the gorgeous scenery, Seattle is ranked as one of the best places to live in the United States. Seattle is also currently the fastest growing city in the United States. Why do people want to move to Seattle?

Key Benefits of Living in Seattle

- The average unemployment rate in the US is 3.5 percent; Seattle is at 3.6 percent and historically has some of the lowest unemployment rates in the country.
- The U.S. median for future job growth over the next 10 years is 3.3 percent. In Seattle, it’s 4.0 percent.
- There is no state income tax.
- Surrounded by several bodies of water, the Seattle area offers many beaches, parks, waterfalls, marinas, mountain views, and stunning scenery. Great outdoors activities - skiing, boating, hiking, biking.
- Seattle experiences less rainfall annually than many cities on the Eastern seaboard.
- The mild, temperate marine climate allows year-round outdoor recreation, including walking, cycling, hiking, skiing, snowboarding, kayaking, rock climbing, motor boating, sailing, triathlon, running, team sports, and swimming.
- The public and private school systems are top-rated, as is the largest educational institution, the University of Washington.
- Seattle has the highest percentage of residents (25+) with a college degree or higher (43.6%). The most literate city in the country.
COST OF LIVING

These sites are great as a general, overall look at how much living in Seattle costs, but it certainly not detailed and exhaustive. You can enter in a city to compare costs with.

Seattle Landlord-Tenant Laws

Tenants Union of Washington State
http://www.tenantsunion.org/en/rights

Questions to ask:

• What utilities does the property use? What is the approximate monthly utility cost?
• Who will have access to keys to the rental unit and how are keys protected? Will locks be changed when the current tenants move out?
• How is maintenance or repair work handled? Does the landlord live on-site or nearby? Is there a property manager?
• What kinds of problems have occurred in the neighborhood or building?

Here are some questions to help you narrow down your housing search:

• Do you want to live alone or with roommates?
• How long or short of a commute would you like to make every day?
• What is the absolute maximum rent you are willing to pay monthly?
• Will you have a car or will you rely solely on public transportation?

These questions will narrow down your housing search and make it much easier to figure out what sort of living situation works best for your needs, budget and overall goals.

Firstly, Padmapper is a great tool (https://www.padmapper.com/) to use since you are able to use a visual map to segment housing based on area and price. As you can see, the city of Seattle proper (downtown, central, north Seattle) are the most expensive areas, whereas Southeast/Southwest Seattle and upper North Seattle is much cheaper. Another similar site is Rent Jungle (https://www.rentjungle.com).

The link below will give you a visual of neighborhoods that you are able to commute to easily via bike, bus, vanpool, light rail or walking:

NEIGHBORHOODS AROUND UW

Living in Seattle – Getting to know the neighborhoods
Seattle is a city of neighborhoods, each with its own unique character. There are some that are the most popular with grad students and they are: Ballard, Fremont, Wallingford, Green Lake, Capitol Hill, the U District, Ravenna, Central District and Queen Anne. They are just a few of many options in the city.

BALLARD
Ballard is a hip waterfront neighborhood with trendy restaurants, indie shops, bars and craft breweries centered on historic Ballard Avenue. Ships and salmon pass through the Hiram M. Chittenden Locks, or Ballard Locks, also a popular picnic spot. The sandy beach at Golden Gardens Park draws sunbathers and volleyball players and offers mountain views. The Nordic Heritage Museum is a must-do; it displays the area’s Scandinavian roots and offers an insight into the heritage of Seattle’s Nordic immigrants.

• Commute: 30-minute bike ride (map); Route 44

CAPITOL HILL
Capitol Hill is diverse and fast-paced, with an endless number of bars, eateries, nightclubs, laid-back coffee shops and indie stores. It is also the unofficial center of Seattle’s LGBTQ+ community. Volunteer Park, atop the hill in a historic mansion district has walking trails, a plant conservatory, panoramic city views and the art deco Asian Art Museum. It abuts Lake View Cemetery, where the city’s founders (and Bruce Lee) are buried.

• Favorites: Craft beers at “Optimism Brewing Company.”; swing dancing at “The Century Ballroom”; Tacos at “Tacos Chukis”; Happy Hour with a great view at “The Lookout”; ice cream at “Molly Moon’s.
• Commute: 20-minute bike ride (map); Routes 43 and 49 and Link light rail

FREMONT
Fremont is a bohemian neighborhood on the north bank of the canal which features indie shops, hip bars and eclectic eateries. Quirky outdoor sculptures include the gigantic Fremont Troll which you can find lurking under the Aurora Bridge, as well as the towering Fremont Rocket. Cyclists and walkers have easy access to the Burke Gilman Trail – right along the ship canal.

• Favorites: Over 60 craft beer taps at “Brouwer’s” pub; the free tasting room at “Theo Chocolate”; lattes at “Fremont Coffee Company”; pet-friendly and American eats at “Norm’s Eatery & Alehouse”, Russian potato dumplings at “Pel’Meni Dumpling Tzar.”
• Commute: 20-minute bike ride (map); Route 31, 32

GREEN LAKE
Green Lake is a popular neighborhood in north central Seattle that caters to people who are looking to get outside whether it’s to grab dinner or walk around the lake. The most popular outdoor activities revolve around the lake itself and include walking or jogging around the 2.8-mile lake loop, renting kayaks, or stand-up paddle boards.

• Favorites: The lake; “Forza” coffee company with a view of the lake; chowder at “Duke’s Seafood & Chowder”; live jazz at “Latona Pub”.
• Commute: 15- to 20-minute bike ride (map); Route 45

RAVENNA
Ravenna is a quieter residential neighborhood that is home to the popular University Village shopping mall, as well as Ravenna Park.

• Favorites: “Boom Noodle” in University Village; diner-style sandwiches at “The Varsity” on 65th; settling in with a good book (or paper) at “Third Place Books”
• Commute: 35-minute walk (map); 12-minute bike ride (map); Routes 372, 71

THE UNIVERSITY DISTRICT
The University District is an eclectic mix of urban shopping areas, historic homes, casual hangouts, and student life. The “U District” has a youthful (46% of its residents are in their 20s) and relaxed feel, and “The Ave” (University Way) is a popular gathering place, with lots of indie eateries and funky shops. Much of the graduate housing provided through the UW is in the U District, and many of the undergraduates living off campus opt for housing here, an area that is also home to the University’s Greek houses.

- Favorites: Biang biang noodles at “Xi’an Noodles”; brunch at “Portage Bay Café”; browsing at the independently run University Bookstore.
- Commute: On or adjacent to campus. UW Seattle is located in the U District.

WALLINGFORD
Wallingford is a family-friendly neighborhood on the north shore of Lake Union which features casual pubs, diverse restaurants and student hangout bars (located on 45th Street). On the south end, Wallingford borders the water and boasts popular Gasworks Park a great place to play Frisbee and watch the sunset over the Seattle skyline. The Burke-Gilman cycling and walking trail runs past the park and allows for more outdoor time.

- Favorites: “Dick’s” drive-in burgers and $1 fries; “Chocolati” chocolate café; sorbet and gelato at “Fainting Goat” gelato; locally made art and clothing at “Wish” boutique.
- Commute: 20- to 35-minute walk (map); 15-minute bike ride to campus (map); Routes 44

CENTRAL DISTRICT
Central District is east of Capitol Hill, north of I-90 and ends at Lake Washington. It is one of the oldest surviving residential neighborhoods in Seattle with a variety of cultural groups and a strong sense of community. Its home to many diverse restaurants and bars, and well-loved sites like the “Central Cinema” for dine-in movies and an annual Bon Odori Festival that celebrates Japanese culture.

- Favorites: “Ezell’s Famous Chicken” for the claimed best local fried chicken in Seattle; “Chuck’s Hop Shop” for hundreds of beer and cider options; Vietnamese noodle bowls at “Reckless Noodle House and Cocktails.”
- Commute: 30-minute bike ride to campus; 23-minute bus route via Route 48

QUEEN ANNE
Queen Anne is an older, affluent residential hilly neighborhood just north of the Seattle Center (where the Space Needle and MoPOP are located). With plenty of shops, spectacular views at “Kerry Park,” its proximity to Seattle hotspots, and indie restaurants, like “Bounty Kitchen,” it has lots to offer.

- Favorites: “El Diablo Coffee Co” for its caramelized-sugar Cubano espresso; European style beer and food at “Queen Anne Beerhall”; games and puzzles at “Blue Highway Games”
- Commute: 30-minute bike ride to campus; 40-minute bus route via Link light rail and Route 2, 13 and E Line

If you don’t plan on driving or having a car in Seattle, we urge you to consider neighborhoods within walking or biking distance to the UW or neighborhoods with good bus, train or rail service to campus. Do note that you will have access to the U-Pass program as a UW student which will give you lots of benefits in regards to mass transport for $84 a quarter. Benefits of the U-PASS include:

- Unlimited rides on King County Metro, Community Transit, Pierce Transit, Kitsap Transit, and Everett Transit bus services and on Sound Transit’s buses, Link light rail and Sounder commuter trains
- Full-fare coverage on King County Water Taxis and Seattle Streetcar
- Discounted carpool parking
- Vanpool fare credits
- Low membership rate for Zipcar
- Unlimited rides on NightRide
- Discounts and special offers at more than 50 local merchants
- Discounts on bike helmets, lights, pedometers, and more at Hall Health (Wellness Resource Center)

Apartment Housing Options

As a student, you have so many choices for on-campus apartments. You can live right next door to campus or just a short bus ride away.

Mercer Court is special in that it is reserved especially for graduate and professional students, whereas other areas that offer grad/professional apartments also house undergrads. And Mercer Court apartments come furnished with full-size beds! We hope you'll consider Mercer Court as your choice for 2017–18. Of course you'll have the option to select in Nordheim Court or Stevens Court if you prefer.

What you can do now!

- Complete your HFS Student Profile
- Read the 12-Month Housing Agreement
- Explore your housing options
- Meet other grad students interested in campus apartments
- Connect with HFS on Facebook

If you want to live with a current student who doesn't live on campus, or a new student, request them as your roommate on your application, and let HFS know so we can open the application for them during the returner application period.

MFTE Program
The Multifamily Property Tax Exemption (MFTE) Program provides a tax exemption on new multifamily buildings in exchange for setting aside 20-25% of the homes as income- and rent-restricted. By supporting mixed-income residential development in the urban centers, the MFTE program ensures affordability as the community grows.

Plan my commute

Not sure what your transportation options are?

Our staff are here to help you with individualized commute planning. We'll find you the right bus route, customize a bus map, connect you with carpoolers, help you use a bike for all or part of your trip, whatever it takes to get you on your way.

LET'S GET STARTED
UW Commute Ambassadors
These UW students, staff and faculty have volunteered to share their love and knowledge of commuting with other Huskies. “We’ve all experienced a quality-of-life enhancement through our commute,” says Wald, who works in the College of Engineering. “I think we all want to share that with other people.” The Commute Ambassadors come from a wide range of UW departments.

They will help their colleagues and classmates discover better commutes by talking with them about how they get to campus, spreading the word about Transportation Services resources such as the Commute Concierge, providing information from partner and community organizations, and organizing events. The Ambassadors will combine their personal commuting expertise with support from Transportation Services to help their friends and colleagues discover the wonder of a great commute.

Looking for someone from your part of the UW, or from your neighborhood, who could help show you the ropes of a new commute? Our Commute Ambassadors directory lists our whole roster of volunteers by UW department, commute mode and neighborhood, with contact information for each. Trying a new commute can be much easier if you have someone to show you the way, and now there’s a squad of volunteers trained to do just that.
